Student body presidents and ICC representatives will attend the meeting from all the community colleges in the state of Washington. Main topic of the conference will cover the Junior Leadership Conference which will be held May 17 and 18.

Stan White will act as the faculty host during the conference.

WEA Nominates Slate of Officers

WEA, Washington Education Association, concluded its nominations for state officers at a banquet held in the Pasco Senior High Gymnasium Friday evening.

Singing and "wild Indians" started the nominations. This was toned down to straight honest talks on the qualifications of the nominees.

Mr. Joe Chandler, executive secretary of WEA, was honored for his many long years of service and devotion to the organization. He was given a slide projector and a pen set.

The decorations consisted of campaign posters and table settings were paper sunbursts.

The program also included the Mad Hatters of Kennewick who were unable to sing because of the long program.

In addition to the 250 to 300 teachers from all over the state who attended the meeting, some 25 CBC students also took part.

Teacher Studies Here

PAUL NORNES, of Winger, Minnesota, is one of the many out-of-state students attending CBC. The one thing that sets Mr. Nornes apart from the other students is that he is also a teacher. At present he is teaching the seventh grade at McLoughlin Junior High in Pasco.

Mr. Nornes was graduated from Bemidji State College in Minnesota. Last quarter he took Washington History, and this quarter he is taking algebra.

When asked what he thought about the country around here he replied, "It's unique."

It's Up Bright and Early For Catherine May Talk

By CeCe Hills

IT WAS cold and drizzly as we drove to The Manor House early that morning. It was too early, I thought. I shivered as I remembered my nice warm bed where I would still be if my patriotic - loving roommate hadn't drug me out.

We trudged up the steps and into the room. Several people were gathered around discussing, of all things—politics.

Tempting smells of scrambled eggs and baked ham reached my nostrils. When were we going to eat?

Long tables were set up displaying Washington historical place mats designed by Mr. and Mrs. Stappler. I felt a jab in the ribs and turned around to be introduced to Charles Gates, president of Young Tri-City area Republicans.

There was no time for conversation as the guest of honor arrived.

Catherine May's deep resonant voice enhanced all as we sat down to eat. Everyone listened attentively as Mrs. May began her speech. (Almost everyone, that is.)

Discussion Groups Planned Here Soon

YOUNG Democrats and the Young Republicans of CBC are forming a group to discuss current political issues. The discussion will be open to all students interested in government and politics. Meetings are scheduled to begin soon.

While others were discussing the new feed and grain bill about to be passed, one woman was carefully applying her make-up. Personal grooming is important, but . . .

Mrs. May strongly opposed Kennedy's program for improving and expanding employment among America's young people. She suggested training for more permanent jobs rather than a "revision of the old CCC camps." This training could be provided for by a tax revision to encourage expansion in small industry.

The Republican Women of Franklin County sponsored the breakfast. Mrs. Max Brown of Pasco was chairman.

Treble Cleffs Plan Concert Here Tonight

TONIGHT the Treble Cleff women's choral group from CBC night school, will present its annual concert. The 18 member chorus has been practicing for the past seven months for this concert.

The concert will be presented in the CBC lounge at 8 p.m. Tickets will be one dollar for families and fifty cents for singles. The program will include "concert music" as well as some lighter types of music. There will also be an excerpt from "Madam Butterfly" entitled "One Fine Day."

Phi Theta Kappa To Tap May 8

PHI THETA KAPPA will have a formal tapping ceremony May 8 at CBC. Purpose of the society as stated in the constitution, is to promote scholarship, to develop character, and to cultivate fellowship among the students of both sexes of the junior colleges of the United States of America.

The qualifications of these members are:

1. Prospective members shall be in top ten per cent of the class scholastically at the time of election. This is accumulative average.

2. The ten per cent of the student's class includes present members of the Honor Society.

3. The cumulative average will include all of the student's college work, whether at CBC or elsewhere.

4. The student must have completed two quarters of work at CBC carrying a minimum of 15 hours work each quarter.

5. The minimum requirement for membership as listed in the constitution is GPA 3.0. The faculty committee has expressed its desire that the minimum average for first year students be 3.3 and the minimum for second year students be 3.2. This would necessitate a student getting more than the minimum "B" average.

6. It is not necessary to recommend the full ten per cent of a class for membership—only those of proven ability, and with good moral standards.

7. Each prospective member will be recommended to the society by a majority vote of the faculty committee.

Each of the members of this junior college honor society are outstanding in their classes as students and leaders.

Campus Impressions

By Linda Bruizman

IN A RECENT issue of a local newspaper, Pasco city councilman Charles Kilbury proposed a plan for joining the cities of Pasco and Kennewick under one government. Because a new law was passed in the Legislature which allows cities of over 10,000 population to write their own charters, Kilbury feels that consolidation at this time is indicated. "Why write two charters for two cities?" was the question he posed.

Linda

are also in different counties.

Among the advantages of forming one large town are greater opportunities for the introduction of new industries to the area and lower government-operation expenses.

There will undoubtedly come a time when all three of the Tri-Cities will merge with one another, especially if a new bridge between Pasco and Richland is constructed. Perhaps then the time for consolidation would be more appropriate.

ONE MERGER of the three cities seems easier than a merger of two followed shortly (comparatively speaking) by consolidation with a third.

Regardless of what the cities decide, a problem arises in selecting a name for the new city whether it be composed of two or three of the old ones. "Columbia City" was the name suggested by Kilbury for the Pasco-Kennewick town. I've heard many disgruntled comments at the mention of this name—maybe you have a better one?

Below you will see a ballot asking for your opinion on the merger and name suggestions. If you wish, you may fill it out and return it to the Collegiate office. If enough ballots are received, an accurate student poll will be published.

Do you think consolidation of Pasco and Kennewick is indicated at this time? _____

Do you think the merger should include all three cities? _____

If so, when? _____

In your opinion, what would be the main problem encountered by the merging cities? _____

ASB Financial System With Clubs Explained

QUESTION: What happens to money earned by CBC clubs? Answer: It goes back into the ASB fund.

Money earned does not increase a club's allotment. It goes into a fund to be distributed to all clubs meriting a budget.

Clubs such as religious groups and others whose membership is not determined by ASB are not eligible to receive this.

Clubs formed during the year shall be under ASB supervision. After one year they may apply for a budget.

Basis for next year's budget for individual groups depends upon what it has done this year and what it plans for next year. All inactive groups will not receive a budget.

Because of a change in the Attorney General's policy, ASB will sponsor scholarships next year. Thus all club budgets will be decreased.

An itemized sheet of all expenditures is to be turned in to Don Bottom or Bonnie Underwood before May 1 by all clubs expecting a budget for next year.

elections - just who gives a darn

THE FRESHMAN class of CBC deserves a fine acknowledgment for the 120 students who decided to vote last Wednesday and thus represent the majority of the class. Since when does fourteen per cent of a class of 700 students represent the majority or even a plurality of voters?

Let's consider some of the statistics involved in the elections last Wednesday. Of the three candidates for each office, a bare 21 votes would have been needed to secure an office.

Can it be that the Freshman Class of Columbia Basin College is so secure and restful in its student government that some incident of this type can pass unnoticed.

It is this reporter's belief that the elected officials from last Wednesday's election are indeed the best choices, although it would seem that at least half of the Freshman Class could show some acknowledgment as to their choice.

LET'S LOOK at a long standing analogy on the subject of voting. Is it not true that many college students argue for a chance to vote in national elections and use the support of having to sign for selective service as a device for argument? They say that if they are old enough to fight for their country are old enough to vote.

I would like to propose a question to the students, as well as the women students, other freshmen who failed to appear at the elections. Exactly how do these students propose to represent the will of the people of the United States of America in national elections when they cannot represent their own student elections?

ALTHOUGH the 120 voters of the Freshman Class cannot be called electors, the general opinion of the campus is that Dick Ostro, president and Mike Emmons as vice president are the most qualified and adequate for the offices.

These men fought a hard election campaign with exuberance. It is the better campaigns ever held at Columbia Basin—but to no avail. What is the result of these fellows spending hours of personal time to assist and direct a people who are unwilling even to vote?

Good luck, Dick and Mike. May it be the type of support you need for the rest of the year.

Letters To The Editor

Tennis Courts Not Only Need

DEAR EDITOR:

On the editorial page of the Collegiate I noticed two separate articles expounding Columbia Basin College's need for tennis courts. Both writers offered many sound reasons as to why CBC should provide tennis courts for the varsity teams.

It is heartening to know that there are students on this campus who do see need for improvements and are not afraid to speak out about these needs. However, I disagree with the two subject articles.

Granted, tennis courts would be a fine addition to the CBC campus. There are a few other things, though that would also be fine additions. For instance, more available library space and materials. I do not see many articles about this great need.

CBC has a fairly well rounded athletic curriculum already, while the academic curriculum is slighted. There are some students on this campus who actually desire an education. This is clearly evidenced by the extensive use of the library.

I am as much a sports enthusiast as the next fellow, and I especially enjoy a good game of tennis, but in all sincerity I believe that there are better channels in which to direct our labors and funds at the present time.

CBC has the potential to be a very fine institution of learning. Let us not forget that it is an institution of learning.

circle k seeks new members

DEAR EDITOR:

The Circle K, a men's service club, recently submitted a charter to be approved by the State Kiwanis Club.

Circle K is not a social fraternity but is a service organization for college men, in affiliation with Kiwanis, the community service organization for men.

Circle K strives to build leadership and character and offers an opportunity for joint as well as individual participation in services needed within the school and local area.

Among the activities planned for the near future will be the Circle K Relays to be held in Pasco, May 4. Also a charter banquet will be held May 9 at 5:30 p.m. in the CBC lounge. Kiwanians, their wives, charter members, and those interested students are invited. Banquet fee for non-charter members will be $1.75.

Recent guest speakers have included CBC President Donald T. Rippey and Dr. James Thrasher, Superintendent of Schools. Both speakers, Kiwanians, discussed the importance of having Circle K and the responsibility of each member.

The Circle K wishes to extend an invitation to those men students who wish to sacrifice a little time and effort to contact advisers Wally Brown, Stan White, or President Ted Minnick.

Circle K has a dollar dinner meeting every Thursday at 5:30 p.m. in the back room of the lounge.

EXPRESS my sincerest apologies to all those participants of various sports for not more great achievements. Due to overloaded sports writers, they were forced to concen- and faded away from the sports page. If anyone is interested in covering any phase of the athletic activities at CBC I extend my heartiest welcome.
